

The Arab Language

The Arab Culture in Morocco

العربية

...is the word for “welcome” in one of the most poetic languages in the world : Arabic!

Arabic is more than just a means of communication, it is more a very poetic a way of life.

In addition to that, its nearly 300 million native speakers make it to one of the world’s most important languages in international business and politics.

For students, learning Arabic does not only mean to study just another language, indeed learning Arabic will mean to dive into a whole new world of scripts that will help you understand this great oriental culture.

Morocco is situated in the north west of the African continent surrounded by the countries of Algeria and Western Sahara as well as the Mediterranean Sea. Even though Morocco has been a French colony until 1956, the Moroccan people kept their great cultural, i.e. oriental, heritage. Today, Moroccans often speak French as well as Arabic.

98,7% of the 32 million Moroccan inhabitants are Muslims, which defines another part of their national identity.

A whole world of possibilities

Within recent years, the European Language Center has concluded strong bonds with local institutions in Morocco that will allow you to discover this country, its amazing people and their language as well as the entire Moroccan culture from different angles :

1) Language Training

You can either decide for standard Arabic, or become a real Moroccan by choosing "Darija" the Arabic dialect of North-West-Africa. Both options offer four different levels, from beginner via intermediate to pro. At the end of each module a certificate with your achievements will be awarded to you!

2) Volunteer programs

Teaching children, working with woman, assist handicapped people or helping in a social construction project? There is plenty of possibilities how you can play a part in Moroccan society, all by improving your linguistic and social skills.

3) Arabic calligraphy

Add a little extra to your stay and learn more about this ancient art and an integral part of Arabic culture.

All of our programs take place in the lovely Moroccan capital Rabat.

Rabat is situated in the north west of the country and has direct access to the Atlantic ocean. In summer tourists as well as locals love to spend their weekends and evenings on the cities beaches.

With every package you book, you can also opt for the kind of accommodation you prefer, i.e. home stay or individual stay. Be advised that all families we refer to for home stay have been closely considered and will contribute to an unforgettable stay.

The European Language Center will assist you from A to Z with your stay in Morocco. This includes finding an accommodation, help with administrative tasks, give advice for flights and a lot more.
